GOOD NEWS

June 21, 2009, Twelfth Sunday in Ordinary Time
Jb 38: 1, 8-11/2 Cor 5:14-17/Mkk 4:35-41

The Lord addresses modern-day Job out of the whirlwind.

At the first instant, everything in creation—matter that would expand for 14 billion years; moving, exploding material unfolding into particles, quarks, and then protons and neurons; collecting into stars, shaping into planets, settling into oceans and land, growing into plants and trees and tiny microbes, forming into animals, fish, birds and people—all this was smaller than a pin prick. All of creation started in an instant—physicists call it a singularity—everything exploding out of an infinitely hot, infinitely small dot, so much smaller than the period at the end of this sentence.

This is a lot for the human imagination to handle.

Science has pushed into the “what” and the “how” of creation. Our equations can push only so far, and then we must stop. The laws of physics cannot be used to understand the earliest bit of the first instant. Our normal equations in physics, our ways of talking about time itself, break down. We know a lot, but we cannot push farther into the starting point with the tools of science. Scientists continue to think about the beginning of the beginning, of course. At this point, they become philosophers. Physics pushes us to metaphysics.

Should we move from there into theology?

In a letter written to introduce papers published from a study week of philosophers, theologians, and physicists who met at the Vatican observatory in 1988, Pope John Paul II wrote that science and religion can cleanse each other of their weaknesses by expanding their boundaries so that as they coexist, they flourish.

(Did you know the Vatican had an observatory?)

He woke up, rebuked the wind, and said to the sea, “Quiet! Be still!” The wind ceased and there was great calm. Then he asked them, “Why are you terrified? Do you not yet have faith?” Mk4:39-40

WE extend our CONGRATULATIONS and very BEST WISHES to our Fathers in our parish. May God bless you on this Father's Day. Please remember all the deceased fathers in your prayers. May they rest in peace.

Next week our parish will take up the PETER'S PENCE COLLECTION. This Collection allows the Holy Father to cast the light of Christ upon the world by providing emergency assistance to those who need it most around the globe. Please be generous in next week's Peter's Pence Collection.
